Mack Dooley was in town Wednesday and Thursday on R. R. business. We are glad to see Dr. G. M. Berry on the streets again. George has been quite ill.

Our old reliable friend Major Earnest has been in town this week making love to the merchants.

Mr. W. A. Ray, the marble and tomb stone man is a fine workman. Write to him at Bristol.

Hon John Allison Jr. has been in attendance at Elizabethton court looking after some phisophet cases.

See Tip Comer blazes out on the admiring world our unmarried friend, Isaac Harr will be a city father.

W. H. Taylor, Esq. has been confined to his home several days with a severe cough, but was able to be in town yesterday.

Largest stock of high and low quarter shoes in East Tennessee at A. S. Gump & Co.

J. W. Cronley Esq. is doing a splendid business. The ladies love Wash because he provides them with stoves and tin ware.

Geo. C. Seaver is a good man. He sells hardware and cutlery in the Worley block. We like George because he sells cheap, and advertises.

The cash, blind & door factory now being erected, by Messrs. Grant & Son is another star in Johnson City's crown.

Nobby lot of youth's and children's clothing at from $2.50 to $10.00 per suit just received at A. S. Gump & Co.

See advertisement of "Dickie's" Indian Blood and Liver Pills, "Manufactured and sold by Jno. R. Dickie, druggist, Bristol."

Dr. J. B. Hash, druggist and dealer in general merchandise, has been prominent in THE COMET. He will be found at his place of business on Main Street, at all hours.

One of our readers should be interested to trade with any business firm on account of advertisement in THE COMET, we want them to make the fact known to the advertisers.

Three gem pictures for fifty cents, and one given away to each customer, at Cargill's gallery. Fine photo's of all sizes, standing or sitting, at reasonable rates.

We are glad to hear that our friend, H. B. Clark, will soon bring his family back to their delightful home in the city. They have been spending the winter with relatives in Boston.

If you want to feel badly go into J. C. Campbell's store. His goods are so cheap you will spend every cent you have got before you leave.

Strange that Nat Hyder will make beautiful shoes to put on the exquisite feet of the lovely maidens and get too cowardly to marry a pair of exquisite feet to put into his beautiful shoes. See ad.

Dr. J. C. King the dentist ought to be watched. He is light fingered—so light that he can steal a tooth out of your mouth and you'll never know it. See ad.

Our stock of Spring clothing, just received, is full and complete, giving you a call, no trouble to show you through our immense stock. A. S. Gump & Co.

Our good looking friend Robt. M. Staples of the firm of McNulty, Bunch, Lillard & Co., cracked a joke and warned our hearts with several smiles as he passed through our city on a drumming expedition a few days ago.

Headstrong Thomas of Elizabethton will be twelve years old in this month. He weighs three hundred and five pounds, is five feet six inches high, and is growing and increasing in flesh rapidly.

Henry King, business manager of King Hodge & Co's elegant mercantile establishment is one of the handsomest men that's out, and one of the politest and clearest. And Jimmie McMillan of the same house, can sell goods to the girls whether they want them or not, and so can Crumley.

The City hotel is now in splendid condition, its table is inviting and always plentifully provided with good things, and its rooms are kept neat and comfortable, its proprietor has yellow locks and a rosy face, a warm heart, a happy temperament and entertains his guests royally.

See advertisement of J. W. Mort dealer in guns, pistols, fishing tackle and sporting goods in general. If you want anything in his line you can send order by mail and have goods sent by mail or express. He is reliable.

All indebted to Harr Bros. will call on us.

Col. Nelson superintendent of the E. T. & W. N. C. R. R., has bought Crumley & Millers laundry with the view of converting it into a large store and hallow-ware Manufactory. He will begin operations about the first of April.

Young Mr. Lammelen, a son of the superintendent of the Cranberry mines passed through Johnson City a few days since with his young bride.

The Johnson City Enterprise, edited and published by W. S. Mithell has been enlarged. It is a delightful sheet to read, sparkling with wit and humor and brim full of good solid matter.

Clothing and Gent's furnishing goods 15 per cent. less than ever sold in this market at A. S. Gump & Co.

Charles Lide ought to be a happy man. He is the husband of a good woman, the father of a sweet little girl baby and proprietor of a wholesale hardware and grocery establishment in Johnson City.

Dr. J. A. Dickey, of Bristol advertises his painless eye water. This wonderful remedy was discovered by Dr. Dickey himself, and is pronounced by physicians who have tried it to be unequalled by anything that can be used for sore or weak eyes.

The professional card of Dr. Sam W. Rhea, of Bristol will be found in another column. Dr. Rhea is justly regarded as a dentist of high standing, and to those who know him needs no recommendation.

Parties having produce for market would do well to write or call on C. E. Schaff & Co., Bristol. They also do cash brokerage business and some of our Merchants have found it to their advantage, to order groceries through them. See ad.

We would like for our friends to send us the names and addresses of those of their friends who will be likely to subscribe for our paper, so that we can send them sample copies.

We acknowledge the receipt of the February number of The Star-crest, a very interesting college paper published by the Philothemian Society, of King College.

We send out a large number of the first issue of our paper to our friends as specimen copies. Those who receive a copy will regard it as invitation to subscribe.

Our old particular friend Jack Bayless of Carter, has nine daughters and six sons. Four of the daughters have recently married and left the paternal roof. The six boys and five girls remain at home, and Jack says he is homesome.

R. J. Rankin is in the fight, when it comes to selling goods. Accommodating, polite and honest, all who know him, will be sure to go back and trade again.

Johnson City Lodge of Knights of Honor has been numbered 3089 by the Supreme Lodge. The lodge will meet to night and all of the members are requested to be present.

Among the advertisements of the business men of Bristol will be found that of R. E. Dixon, jeweler. He is the successor in business to the well known watchmaker and jeweler, V. Doriot. Mr. Dixon, though quite a young man, is doing a good business, and has one of the prettiest stores in the city. He is in every way reliable and his place of business will be found next door to Gump's, Main Street.

The Nickels House, Bristol, is one of the best along the railroad. It is presided over by Mr. W. P. Hamilton and his excellent lady. They formerly managed the Hamilton House which proved too small for the accommodation of their guests, and they moved to the Nickels House, one of the large and most convenient hotels in East Tennessee.

Prominent among the wide awake irrepressible young men of this end of the State are those who make the trio under the firm name of Harr Bros. Will alias Bill Arrp. Ed the lively man, and John the evangelist, all worked themselves up in business through difficulties that would blanch the cheeks of less courageous men, and have conquered circumstances. To-day they stand among the first and best business men in Johnson City or any other city. They deserve the good will and patronage of the people.

A. Picken, of Bristol, the model jeweler, advertises in THE COMET. He has recently moved into his new store room on the corner of Main and 5th Streets, his old quarters becoming too small to hold the goods required to carry on his increasing business. Picken is not afraid to advertise, and some other business men might profit by his example. When we first knew him, he had commenced operation on a small scale, but by liberal newspaper advertising and fair dealing he has established a business that is not confined to Bristol, but reaches out in every direction into the surrounding country.

Who can beat it?—Deputy Sheriff Smith of Johnson County, while sitting in his door one day last week, shot and killed with a rifle fifty robbers from one bush, thirty-eight of which he shot through the head. A friend of his during the same day killed forty from the same bush.

"Boom Boom."—J. J. Adams is now ready and anxious to close contracts for brick work. Call on him in time, for the night council when a man can work.

Our excellent friend G. E. Crouch who has been sick for some days past is on the streets again, we are glad to say.

Misses Maggie Temple and Minnie Borkley have honored us with a call, and made us happy with their smiles and good wishes. "Cy signed."

Mrs. Bettie Durisand Miss Maggie Patton gave us a pleasant call a few days since, and made us forget for a moment that we were newspaper men, so charming was their conversation, and so delicious their smiles.

A certain young lady in town says she is going to plant vines by the side of the porch, facing the window where the old folks stay, in order to make a screen, so that she may sit in the long summer evenings, and sing:

"Lonely I sit me and cry."

Toad Hickey has embraced spiritualism; the following lines explain the reason:

"Suddenly there came a tapping, As of some one gently rapping, Rapping at the parlor door."

The Taylor of THE COMET acknowledges the receipt of valuable documents from his old sweet heart, Pettibone.

"You may break, you may shatter the vase if you will, But the scent of the rose will hang round it still."

Johnson City has seven Churches and seven prosperous Sunday Schools, a Temperance Society, a Missionary Society, a Masonic Lodge, an Odd Fellows' Lodge, a Lodge of Knights of Honor and a Lodge of Knights of the Golden Cross, all in a flourishing condition.

Hon. S. J. Kirkpatrick, of the Refereed Commission is compiling the more important unreported decisions of the Supreme Court of Tennessee, rendered since the year 1870, and will have them published in one or more volumes. The work is one of great importance and Judge Kirkpatrick deserves the thanks of the legal profession for the task he has undertaken.

SKATING RINK—Johnson City is to have a roller skating rink. A smooth floor is being laid in Jobe's Hall and as soon as it is finished and the hall otherwise put in order, the rink will be opened. Of course the ladies will attend. They enjoy the health giving sport and soon learn to glide over the floor with ease. The rink will be under the control and management of Messrs. M. F. Hickey and Robt. Jobe.

J. B. Jones and family, and W. A. Jones and lady have arrived in the city. They have bought out Dr. Worley's drug store, and will open out a new business soon. Mr. Jones is an excellent gentleman and will make a good citizen here as he does everywhere he goes. We give him a hearty welcome.

Almost every fellow we meet has had a cold soaked in his nose by the recent fickleness of the weather, and the ladies too—we don't mean to say that the ladies have soaked a cold in anybody's nose, nor that they are fickle, but that most of them are handling their noses as well as the gentlemen—we don't mean to say they are handling the gentlemen, but that they have had colds.

Elizabethton, the capital of Carter County, has been lively this week. Circuit Court has been in session, his honor Judge Hacker presiding. A great many cases were disposed of, but none of any great importance. Judge Hacker is one of the ablest judges in the state.

LATER—There was considerable excitement in court when the case of the State vs. Isaac Richardson and Irvin Hurley, for killing of a sheep, was called. Counsel for the defense were C. J. StJohn, N. M. Taylor, Thos. Curtis, J. W. Tipton, W. C. Emmert, J. L. Wilcox, R. A. Smith, Jno. M. Simerly, C. C. Collins, H. M. Folsom, H. C. Boyd, Taylor & Burrow, H. M. Lichenhart, John Allison Jr.

John Fain prosecuting. Verdict: Not guilty but sheep killed in Sullivan county.

CRUSHED TO DEATH—Nelson Harl, a colored employee of the E. T. & W. N. C. R. R. was crushed to death by a freight train, at this place, on Thursday morning last. Harl was a brakeman on No. 6, a freight train, and had changed a switch in order to run on the main track. As the train was passing he attempted to climb on to a car by means of the iron ladder on the side, but missing his hold was precipitated under the car and the entire train passed over his body, crushing and mangleing it in a horrible manner. He lived about one hour and a quarter. The R. R. Company had his remains expressed to his people at Morristown.

Tipton Jobe's large brick business house will soon be completed. It has three elegant store rooms below, and the second story will be fitted up for a hall for public gatherings.

Within the past six months there have been between thirty and forty buildings, dwelling and business houses erected in the city, and we are informed by a prominent builder that he has knowledge of forty more to be built soon, and these are but forty drops in the bucket.

Lines suggested to our "devil" Harry, (not old Harry), on kissing a girl that had a bad cold:

"Oh, honey girl, With flowing curls, And cheeks flecked with rose, Oh, from their lips The nectar drips, And also from their noses."

C. F. Hodges the popular artist is in town. He has his family with him. He declares himself unanimously for THE COMET and THE COMET is proud of its friend.

A TOSQUE TWISTER.—Theopholis Thistle, the thistle sifter, sifted a sieve of unsifted thistles. If Theopholis Thistle, the thistle sifter, sifted a sieve of unsifted thistles, where is the sieve of unsifted thistles that Theopholis Thistle, the thistle sifter, sifted?

A drummer left a shirt at a hotel and wrote the proprietor to please forward it to him. The chambermaid replied in these touching lines:

"I hope dear sir, you'll not feel hurt. I'll frankly tell you all about it. I've made a shift of your old shirt, and you must make a shift without it."

One of our most prominent dentists met with a plasterer on Church Street yesterday.

Dentist: "What are you doing now?" Plasterer: "I am putting the finishing touches on the new saloon."

Dentist: "I'd never plaster a liquor shop."

Plasterer: "I'd as leave plaster a liquor shop as plug an old toper's tooth, with his belt full of liquor."

Hunt & Lide, two of East Tennessee's most active young men have opened a large wholesale and retail establishment in this city. When the breathings of spring brings the blush to the roses, the farmer boys will shout as they play with the Oliver Chilled, and the luscious girls will sing while the coffee-pot boils. The old folks will sit in the shade and read THE COMET, and all will thank the Lord for Hunt & Lide's Hardware and Grocery store, and for a good readable newspaper.

There's a little girl and the small boy stood With their eyes to the keyhole pressed, And they saw the sister Jenny's head On Thomas Swingle's vest. Then she ran to her parent and told, And the parent sternly replied, "There ain't no harm in a vest side out, but the lad refused to slide. "There ain't no harm in a vest, I know," And his eyes flashed bright that minute, "If you're so dangerous, dad," he asked, "Then Thomas Swingle's in it!"

The Horton, Yocum Tannery recently established in this city is one of the largest in the United States. The company have bought an immense body of land—20,000 acres or more—for the chestnut oak timber. And every spring they give employment to hundreds of laborers, at splendid wages, in peeling bark for tanning purposes, besides keeping a large number of men employed the year round at the tannery. Col. Yocum the chief manager of the business was a Colonel in the Federal army and is an ex-Congressman from Pennsylvania. Mr. Gilderale who is also connected with the enterprise, is a genial gentleman, and Johnson City and East Tenn. may well be proud of such men as citizens. Let Tennessee rejoice when such men come among us. Let us have more Hortons, more Yocums, more Pardoes more Grants and more Matsons, with their capital and push and snap and grit, to develop and utilize the wonderful resources of wealth, which lie sleeping here and thus to make "The beautiful land of mountains" blossom like the rose.

He knew the sentiment but did not know the words.

"The boy stood on the burning deck whence all but him had fled—the boy stood on the burning deck—The boy stood on the burning deck—His father told him to stand there. Till he told him to get off a there. And the boy said he wasn't going to get off a there 'till his father told him to get off a there. And fast the flames rolled on, and the boy just kep' standin' there. The flames rolled on he would not go, and he just kep' a standin' there yet beautiful and bright he stood. The sailors told him to get off a there. He said he wouldn't do it unless his father said so, and he just kep' a standin' there—The boys father was dead, he got killed down below and the boy didn't know it, an he just kep' a standin' there. A creature of heroic form. He just kep' a standin' there. The boy he hollered to his father. If yet my task is done. But his father was dead and couldn't hear him. And the boy just kep' a standin' there—An' but the booming guns replied, and fast the flames rolled on, and 'the boy he just kep' a standin' there, at the last the old biler busted and the boy went up!"

And the applause of the enraptured audience the major put his chewing gum back in his elegant mouth started in a trot for a bench, kicked one boy on the shin, struck another in the eye with the "battered side of a biscuit, scratched the skin off another's ear, sat down by one of the grown up gals, stuck a pin in her, and said, with an independent air: "You don't know who you're laughin' at."

Make Us Up a Club.

We want to have three thousand subscribers by the first of September, by the time the Presidential campaign is in full blast. In order to do this we will have to ask our friends to help us. There is some one in almost every community in East Tennessee who can get us up a club without much trouble. Help us get up a big subscription list and we will make THE COMET lively.

Two Men Killed.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—A number of men were excavating a bank of earth within the city limits to-day when a cave occurred, burying four men. Two of them extricated themselves, but two others, one white and one colored, were dead when dug out.

Said $1.25 and receive THE COMET.

TOBACCO WAREHOUSE.—Messrs. Harr Bros. and Barnes are doing a good business at their Johnson City warehouse. For the past few weeks the "breaks" have been unusually lively. They have sold for the parties mentioned below at prices given per hundred:

Lewis Blevins, Carter county, Tenn., seven lots at $46.00, 44.00, 37.00, 35.00, 16.50, 16.00, 12.75. Blevins, 1000 lbs at $17.00, average. L. Thomas, Yancy co., N. Tipton, three lots at $38.00, 22.00, 15.00.

From Bristol.

BRISTOL, March 12, '04.

EDITORS COMET—As soon as this season of mud and snow and sleet and rain gives way to the "softening skies and genial clouds" of spring, the ringing trowel, and busy saw and hammer, will gladden the ears of Bristol-on-the-line. Contractors and workmen are making active preparations for the busy time coming, and in a little while, the buildings will be going up with a rush. Railroad matters, too, are threatening to boom. There is a good prospect that some early and reliable action will be taken in regard to our Narrow Gauge. We can only await anxiously the development of the next few weeks; true our hopes are growing brighter. When that road is finished then look out.

A number of citizens interested in the permanent continuance of our Border Fair have taken steps to purchase the grounds. There is little doubt that this will be done, as the owner refuses to rent. Then let the management offer good inducements to the farmers; make the attractions lively, but innocent, and crush out the "infernal" swindling machines, and the Fair will be a success.

The testimony of Mr. I. C. Fowler before the Danville investigating committee at Washington, has occasioned some talk on the street. The citizens are outspoken in their condemnation. They say that his evidence is a gross exaggeration, perversion and misrepresentation of facts; that the impression left is injurious and unjust to Bristol. Mr. Fowler has an editorial in this weeks News which, I think, adds insult to injury, by declaring that he tried to shield his neighbors as much as possible! Personally, Mr. Fowler is an agreeable gentleman, and I regret exceedingly that he should have lain himself so open to the censure of his people.

Just now there is visible the first faint ripple on the political sea, and it gives but little indication of the coming storm. Soon it will break in all its fury, and the waves will beat themselves into a seething foam. The lightning's glare and thunder's crash will tell of the fiercely waging elements. It is to be sincerely hoped that in the gentle calm which follows the people of this great Nation may be enabled to breathe the fresh, pure air of Democratic government. Let the National Convention which meets at Chicago in July place upon its banner the blazing letters, "Tilden, Hendricks, and Reform," and the wave of popular approval will sweep them irresistibly into the positions from which they were so outrageously defrauded eight years ago.

NO PROPERTY FOUND.

The E. T. & W. N. C. Railroad Covered With Mortgages.

It is well known that Mrs. Tennie Gurley, whose husband was killed in a railroad accident, was a few months ago awarded $12,000 damages by the courts, the East Tennessee, Virginia & Georgia Railroad company refused to pay the amount assessed against them. Some two months ago an execution was issued and placed in the hands of the Sheriff of Knox county. He was directed to collect the money by levying upon and selling any property of the railroad. Yesterday the sheriff returned the execution with the report, "no property found." The sheriff found that the entire railroad, with all the rolling stock, equipments and property of every description was mortgaged and beyond the reach of any execution. There is not so much as a dump car, a railroad spike, an official chair or a pen holder that can be attached, and sold for debt. The mortgage deeds as recorded cover about twenty miles of the Knox county road and every conceivable article of property belonging to the railroad is enumerated in them. The mortgages are held in New York, on by the Union Trust Company and two by the National Trust Co. The faces of the mortgages aggregate about forty million dollars. This sum covers not only what the road and all its property and equipments are worth, but all that it ever will be worth, with all the water the stock can have.—Knoxville Tribune.
